2.0 Composition of the Board

Every public-listed company should be headed by an effective Board, which can both lead and control the business. Within the context of a unitary board system, a Board made up of a combination of EDs (Executive Directors) and NEDs (Non-Executive Directors) should bring a broader view to the company's activities under a Chairman who accepts the duties and responsibilities that the post entails. The Board should also be capable of and perceived to exercise independent judgement.

NEDs should be persons who possess the right character, experience, integrity, competence and time to effectively discharge his/her role as Director and to bring an independent judgement to bear on the issues of strategy, performance and resources including key appointments and standards of conduct. The number of Independent Non-Executives should be significant to ensure their views will carry significant weight in Board decisions.

The Board should ideally consist of a Chairman and a suitable number of EDs and NEDs. The number of INEDs (Independent Non-Executive Directors) should comprise of at least half of the membership of the Board, in compliance with the MCCG 2017 best practices. Collectively, the Board should have all the necessary skills, competencies and experience to fulfil the duties and objectives of the Board.
